This 3-hour practical suturing workshop is designed for clinicians working in acute and emergency care who want to build confidence with wound assessment and basic suturing skills. The session is highly hands-on and suitable for beginners, with no prior suturing experience required.

Topics Covered:

- Overview of assessment and cleaning of acute wounds
- Practical techniques for ring removal
- Digital ring block and local anaesthetic infiltration
- Core suturing skills, including:
 - Single interrupted sutures
 - Hidden subcutaneous skin closure
- Knot tying fundamentals, with demonstration and practice of:
 - Quad surgeon's knot
 - Aberdeen tie

Participants will be guided step by step through each technique, practising from first principles in a supportive learning environment.
Each participant will receive a take-home suturing training kit.

Practical Blood Gas Analysis

 REGISTER NOW

Thailand Register button >
Scroll down to Add On's

This 3-hour blood gas workshop provides a clear and practical overview of respiratory physiology and gas physics as they relate to venous and arterial blood gas interpretation in the acute setting. The session is designed to build confidence in analysing blood gases and applying results to real clinical scenarios.

Topics Covered:

- Core respiratory physiology and gas physics relevant to ABG and VBG measurement
- Indications for venous versus arterial blood gases and when to use each
- Recognition and interpretation of acidosis and alkalosis
- Understanding compensation in acid-base disorders
- Worked clinical examples to reinforce a structured approach to ABG analysis

Participants will work through practical, case-based examples designed to consolidate learning and improve real-world application.
